

Train your team

before moving forward with

QA Initiatives

Prior to starting a Quality Assurance Initiative, it is critical to ensure your online learning support team (technology trainers, instructional technologists, and instructional designers) are well trained on the Quality Matters Rubric and Standards. Faculty who may not have been through QA/QM training will have specific questions only someone with this familiarity will fully understand and be able to help design high quality courses to meet established standards.

